Certificate 12.234.1

The safety conscious aerospace industry has no room for failure. And neither does McNeil. Our experts work with your team to develop the best possible solution, whether it involves steel, aluminum, titanium, inconel, and other high-temp metal alloys.

We're big enough to be trusted by aerospace industry leaders, yet small enough to work on special jobs with just about any material you need – with the same guaranteed results.

You will also find our MAXAM® bearings, seals and other products in various aerospace applications, including:

- Hydraulic systems
- Fuel systems
- Brake systems
- Couplings, hoses and fittings
- Engine blades and vanes
- Engine bodies and controls

McNeil's AS9100C and ISO 9001 quality systems ensure that your job will be done right the first time. And when your specs change at the last minute, we are flexible enough to make it work in whatever application you require, no matter how fast you need it.

Count on the McNeil Industries team to build systems and components to your specs.
